Description

In 14.x (compared to 12.x) the wiki-plugin LIST does not display correct saved field values.

Instead it sticks to the first value saved and refreshing search index or clearing Tiki cache does not help - when you come back to the page it still shows the first saved value.

For example I saved "Admin The Big Boss" there first, then changed it to "System Admin" but when I come back to the page it still shows "Admin The Big Boss". But the tracker field value is "System Admin" when you click on it to edit.

This is specifically about the User Preference type of field, right? Or does it happen on others (not seen that in production).

The field `realName` was missing its preference setting, which i added (`realName`) which makes it work a bit better in that when editing it shows the pref value, but still shows "Admin The Big Boss" when not editing - really odd!

I downloaded the snapshot and it seems the value of that field item is "Admin The Big Boss" so that's what is being (incorrectly) indexed - looks fixable if i can find time to look at it 😊

I made another field but added the pref option before entering data but it seems the same (just shows the default, so no value is being indexed)

Awesome! Perfect! Thanks Jonny!

I svn upped the show instance and changed the another field to email and it seems to work as intended now! W00t! 😊

Hi Jonny and Luci:

I experienced a similar bug in the 12.x sites I use for production with that tracker field user pref, and I recall issues in the data displayed vs. stored in some cases. So after looking at the changes made in r56314, I just backported them to 12.x (in r56377), because they are probably needed there also (hopefully the issues in 12.x with plugintrackerlist are gone also with this commit).

Cheers

Thanks Xavi - did it work?

Hola Xavi!

My initial report assumed it worked fine in 12.x but if this fixed anything for you, great!

Hi Jonny and Luci:

I could do a quick test on my production site where I'm using the RealName user pref in a tracker (with plugin tracker, etc) and your fix didn't work to fix the issue we have there: providing data to the user pref RealName field, doesn't store it/display it...

Mmmm... let me clear caches, just in case... the RealNme is changed indeed (as seen on user administration, user preferences, etc), but this type of url: tiki-view_tracker_item.php?view=+user&cookietab=2 does not display the RealName data into the realName user pref tracker field
