Description
    Update: a fresh SVN checkout of Tki15 branch fixed the problem.
    There are still (verry bad) UX issues related to calendars and related plugins and modules, but calendars are definitely usable.

    Sorry for the hussle.

    Unblocked and closed now! Thx especially to Jonny!

    In a quite fresh Tiki 15.0svn (MyISAM) the calendar edit is broken.

    Trying to add an event into a ne calendar I get the following error message:

    {CODE()]

    Fatal error: Uncaught > ~~Smarty Compiler: Syntax error in template "/homepages/XX/XXXXXX/htdocs/Public_HTML/tiki/members/trunk/templates/tiki-calendar_edit_item.tpl" on line 40 "" - Unexpected "wikitext", expected one of: "}"~~ < thrown in /homepages/XX/XXXXXX/htdocs/Public_HTML/tiki/members/trunk/vendor/smarty/smarty/libs/sysplugins/smarty_internal_templatecompilerbase.php on line 40
    {CODE}

    The same error occurs, when JS calendar is activated or deactivated.

    Regards,

Torsten

Please provide a show instance, cannot reproduce here, thanks

Thx big time for quickly looking into it.

i will be travelling over the weekend, but hope to be able to setup a show instance until tomorrow or Sunday.

Aswell I will switch the installation to a fresh Tiki 15.0 svn (it was a trunk short before branching) and test lokally with the new code. Maybe it will be sorted then, or otherwise we might find out a conflict with some server setting.

I will report as soon as I have done the test and show.

Until then Thx and greetz
Torsten
