Description

Plugin {listpages find="FAQ"} and also {listpages find="FAQ" showNameOnly="n"} produce expected output

But {listpages find="FAQ" showNameOnly="y"} produces no output

However {listpages find="FAQ" showNameOnly="n"} followed by {listpages find="FAQ" showNameOnly="y"} ~~does produce expected output from both commands.~~ but it is correctly only by co-incidence.

Further testing shows the output from running a pair of {listpages } in succession is erroneous.
Create a test page

For page == Test_XListPages_4

!!! Test 4 {listpages initial="test_p" showNameOnly="n"} {listpages initial="test_x" showNameOnly="y"}

The output from the second command ignores its selection criteria initial="test_x" and simply repeats the output of the first command, all be it in the requested showNameOnly="y" format.

Not being able to produce simple list of pages is hampering our migration from TW6.7 to TW15.5

See Test_Page_1, Test_Page_2 and Test_Page_3 for demo of this issue in the show system.
I've updated the original test pages from find="tes" to initial="test_p" to more clearly demonstrate the erroneous behaviour and allow the contrast with test_p -v- test_x pages.

For page == Test_Page_1

!!! Test 1 {listpages initial="test_p" showNameOnly="n"}

!!! Test 2 {listpages initial="test_p" showNameOnly="y"}

!!! Test 3 {listpages initial="test_p" showNameOnly="n"} {listpages initial="test_p" showNameOnly="y"}}

Workaround

Copy /wiki-plugins/wikiplugin_listpages.php from version 17.1

Testing at show.tiki.org has demonstrated this bug was squashed somewhere between 15.5 and 17.1

Afraid I have no idea how to find out how and when, but took source for /wiki-plugins/wikiplugin_listpages.php from both versions and did a compare. Minor difference at line 133 plus three lines 430, 431 & 432 removed and effectively reinserted after line 456. I say effectively because there line 430 was an "if" clause.

So work around is to copy /wiki-plugins/wikiplugin_listpages.php from a version 17.1 system into our 15.5 system
