Description

Facts:

It's a manual action to set the default group of a user.

It's a manual action to set the correct category of an item when created

When a user sets the wrong (or none) category of a new item, it won't have access (depending on permission settings) or everyone has access.

Idea:

Create an option in the User Settings control panel, to enable automatically the default group when a user is only part of 1 user group (besides the registered and anonymous).

Explanation:

When the user creates an new item and is only part of one usergroup which has a default category set, it will get automatically the correct category assigned.
