Solution
Rename the title of the alert box to Warning instead of Error?

Agree, the message need to be soften (warning) and be more usable by telling what to do. (should be a single alias, please delete duplicate...)

It is the new feature. IMHO it shouldn't say "Error" but "Warning" in the title. To make it go away the mentioned pages should be edited to not contain the same alias(es).

Edit: added to https://doc.tiki.org/Tiki19?latest=1&no_bl=y#Page_Alias

The problem is I realize that you cannot simply click the mentioned page links and then edit them as the alias returns you to the one where the warning message is shown. Better would be if the links went directly to `tiki-editpage.php?page=트래커 동기화`?

I went on https://doc.tiki.org/Requirements#PHP where it shows:
Alias Requirements and Setup link already present in Anforderungen, 요구 사항 page(s)
Alias Requirement link already present in Anforderungen, 요구 사항 page(s)

Two other Tiki pages have the same Alias. I guess the result of a blind copy paste.

I went at "요구 사항", I tend to think that this is the same page translated and I delete the alias at the bottom. One error cleaned.

I went at "Anforderungen" (German?) that seems to be just a copy of the original page (I couldn't see my translation).

To my surprise the bottom showed:

I never wrote or update anything yet on this page. (another bug ?)

I deleted the Alias and now https://doc.tiki.org/Requirements#PHP don't show the Error message.
I have the feeling we have hundreds of those... 🙁

Agree it should show warning and not error.
