It looks like 20180410_install_piwik_plugin_tiki.php uses $tikilib which isn't necessarily set up during an upgrade (because we need to upgrade before we can use it!)

It checked if anything is in `SELECT value FROM `tiki_preferences` WHERE `name` = 'site_piwik_code'` and runs if that's not empty, so you could remove that value for now and put it back later?

Piwik doesn't really exist any more does it? No probably not worth fixing...
