Description

According the docs (https://doc.tiki.org/Content-Templates#Use_it) and past experience, there was an edit textarea on the content templates page (tiki-admin_content_templates.php) but, at tiki.org, the edit tab only allows editing of content template details, not the body of the template.

Maybe as a workaround, a wiki page can be specified for the template's content, but this is supposed to be just an alternative to composing on the content template admin page, not the only way to do it.

Solution

It depends on the type of the template - if it is a textarea type you can edit it in the textarea; if it is a wiki page type, you can only edit the linked wiki page.

See for example:

https://doc.tiki.org/tiki-admin_content_templates.php?offset=0&sort_mode=created_desc&templateId=9&cookietab=2

: Ok, user error, then, although maybe some in-page documentation would be helpful. Seems like the textarea was maybe shown by default (the textarea/wiki page toggle maybe was the other way?).
