Description

The Shop profile does create two new groups: Customers and Managers. Managers get some permissions in regard to payments, but none for trackers. This means Managers aren't allowed to populate the products tracker with items, only admin can do that. Also, they aren't allowed to remove tracker items. The entire permissions roster should be checked for consistency.

Also, it should be checked whether or not tiki_p_view_category should be granted to anonymous, otherwise the category won't be output in the shop. Another story is tiki_p_list_trackers. In the default shop profile, this is granted to anonymous, but still for some reason only the admin can list the products tracker?

Thanks

Hi hman

These bug reports are generally for reporting problems in the tiki code, if you can see a way to fix the profile then please do (they're just wiki pages and the same login you use here will work on profiles.t.o)

Thanks 💮

IMHO somebody needs to go through all permissions and check them, preferrably the author of the profile. Also, all changes need to be tested against all relevant Tiki Wiki versions...

Jonny Bradley 11 May 20 13:32 GMT-0000

I think i started that one about a decade ago but many people have worked on it since - Tiki is a community project and depends on volunteers, that's how you give back in return for the free software!

I have been intending to get back to it for some years now but i don't have a personal use for it any more, so it may be several years more before i can spend significant time on it...

So please do go ahead and make the changes you need, i'll try to help and advise where needed.

Thanks and good luck!

Then I'd like to point you to my question on tiki.org, because my installation has one strange deviation from a real profile installation and I cannot explain it, but do not think that this is a bug (categories are not displayed for non-admins). Thanks...

As you said above, and i agree, you need to add some perms for anonymous, at least tiki_p_view_category which does seem to be missing from the profile, they probably also need tiki_p_download_files.

Managers should probably have tiki_p_add_object and tiki_p_modify_object_categories

Great, thanks! Runs a lot smoother now. Managers still do not have "item admin", but I guess that depends on the separate admin permission, and is not really essential - because Managers can now edit products.

What still doesn't look right, but that is probably not a bug, but an error on my manual implementation: Managers who edit a product, cannot change (or initially define) categories. The section "category" is there, and the category is given, but it cannot be altered. I guess I missed something...

Thanks Hman

That's usually tiki_p_modify_object_categories because it lives in the tiki section of permissions not the category one (because it applies to objects, not categories)

It's often missed out and tricky to find...

hman>Jonny Bradley 11 May 20 16:20 GMT-0000 Replied to That's...

Yep, I found it. You really took some effort to hide it 😀 I guessed it to be not a global, but a local permission on the tracker, but then it's not under category, but under tiki... Changed it, and it works. THANKS!

But that is missing in the profile, too... (And that is why I did not integrate it manually...).

Yep, I... Oh, and while were at it: I wonder why I can see (and set) images to products? These images, aren't they attachments to the products, which are tracker items? No one has the right to modify or see attachments to/from tracker items, yet it works...

hman>hman 11 May 20 16:28 GMT-0000 Replied to Oh, and...

Ah, I could answer that one myself. Images are no longer attachment, now they are a field of their own.

On other question. The Shop profile states this for the title field: flags: searchable, public, list, mandatory, link

What is "link"? There seems to be no such flag?
