Description

While translating, I came across Tiki User Credits. Sometimes they seem to be called "User Level Credits", but not consistently.

This feature is by and large rather undocumented... What precisely are they? Are they some token "currency", because you can use it in CART, are they some system of points (sometimes "User Level Credits" are mentioned), which users can gain through Wiki activity? Then I don't understand "(level credits always 0)" also "Use User Credit". Use them - for what?

Then there are "plans"? Is this some system of automatically gaining points that are to be expended on - which - activity? They seem to be able expire...

And as I wrote in the related bug report, you can create new types of credits, but cannot alter or delete them... Text like "Is Static Level Credit" are a mystery to me 😊

Is there some documentation that I did not find (nor did Google...) ?

Thanks
