Description
    I test the field duration on nextdev and suggest some improvements.

    It is really nice and complete however came to me 2 fears when it will be under the hand of end of users (not a Tiki/Techie user).

    User will forget it.
    Imagine having it running on a mobile device for a training sessions or as employee workclock. People will forget it is running quite easily.

    In the tracker field options I suggest we add (simple) alerts parameters:

        • enable alert (this duration is running)
        • every 15mn, 30mn, hours, 5hours, days... (more seems to me too much, but...)

    I suggest also we add a limit (after what we stop the timer)

        • After value mn,hours,days stop the timer (a notification will be displayed)
        • Send a mail notification
            ○ to the admin
            ○ to the user/owner of the item
            ○ to this mailbox value
