That's an image gallery file (deprecated since tiki 3? ;)

Jonny Bradley 08 Jun 21 10:19 GMT-0000

I checked and Image Galleries didn't seem to be enabled, so in case they had been migrated i enabled

file_galleries_redirect_from_image_gallery but it still didn't show up...

Jonny Bradley 08 Jun 21 11:32 GMT-0000

Nope, seems like someone disabled image galleries without migrating, so i re-enabled it temporarily (will be good dog-food ;)

hman 08 Jun 21 21:25 GMT-0000

Remember that migrating doesn't work, it just copies the files, after that, calling them by the old reference yields a "file not found"...

Jonny Bradley 09 Jun 21 07:54 GMT-0000

That's not correct, the old image gallery id's continue to work if you enable file_galleries_redirect_from_image_gallery (it's just in this case the migration script wasn't run and the old galleries were just disabled)

hman 09 Jun 21 13:52 GMT-0000

It is, that is why I opened a bug report for that... I migrated a small set of image gallery files, and this created a new folder "migrated image galleries", but all calls to images that were migrated failed after the file gallery feature was turned off.

Also, where is "file_galleries_redirect_from_image_gallery" ? The search function doesn't find it, also a grep through the entirety of Tiki 18.8. doesn't find that string. Was that a feature introduced after 18.8?

I found it. It is visibly named "Redirect to file gallery" and located in /lib/prefs/file.php. Strange. Inside it is indeed named "file_galleries_redirect_from_image_gallery", but grep did not find it. Anyway, it's turned on, and still, calls to migrated files yield a 'file not found'.

The normal search on tiki-admin.php found it fine for me, but i agree the label on that pref is less than helpful (wasn't me ;) - not sure if it was in 18.x though.

I added some better output to the migrate command here ffb463d3 so hopefully that will help in the future.

Thanks. But besides better output, the function itself needs to be fixed...

A remark, if you pardon me making it as a non-native speaker: I believe in "Something went wrong so, please check" the comma is at the wrong position... Also, IMHO you should not use hard line breaks inside strings...
