Description

When assigning permissions at tiki.org, when there is a large number of groups, the labels on the permissions (rows) are at the far right side of the table which needs to be scrolled to bring the labels into view. Maybe it would be good to put the labels on the left side as well as the right side of the table.

Solution

I guess this could have been just user error, since I didn't deselect the groups that filled the screen but weren't involved in the permission changes I wanted to make. When there are so many groups that the labels are pushed off the right side of the screen, go to the "select group" tab and choose just the groups that the permission change involves. Then the labels should have enough room to display.

Hi Gary,
Please can you share a screenshot if possible ?

Looking at this again, when I went back to make a screenshot, I realized the easiest solution was already available (deselect groups that aren't involved), so I closed the bug report.
