Description
As you can see in this comment's item, the discussions comes to a point it is hard to read and most of the screen space is wasted.

We should add a new preferences so we can limit indentation on thread reply.
It should be optional
It should be have a threshold field (after 5 replies stop indenting)
It should be set "enable" by default (with 5 replies)
It is important to test with a setting of 2 (after the first post, all replies have the same single step indent)

This happens on comments under or added to another feature, not in forums.

Hi Bernard,

Please, can you give some clarifications to the description ?

Bernard Sfez / Tiki Specialist 02 May 22 08:31 GMT-0000

Hello Adrien,

Does that clarify (ha ha ha) ?
https://dev.tiki.org/tiki-view_tracker_item.php?itemId=7838&threadId=9696#threadId9715

After 5 indent, we should stop indent (this is quit a lot, look at the discussion) and stop pushing the content at the bottom of the page and shrink it in a way it is un-readable.
We could also add a start (left in that case) border to the comment to insure reader are aware those are replies from.

Do we need a new preference for fixing this issue ?
In my opinion there no need. Should you be on Desktop or Mobile after 5 replies it become bad already and make Tiki look like an unfinished product. Plus it is really a bad reading experience. We should just do it, period.

Eventually a pref could set the number of replies before we stop indent. But it look to me like extra work/maintenance.

I think it would be a plus to have a preference that manages the number of reply before indent and allows users to manage this according to their use case.

I was trying to make it simple Adrien, but yes that would be great. Using a value, 0 (no indent) and -1 (all indented - the mess we have actually []) could be acceptable. While default should be set to 5 (or close)

Replied to I was trying... So if the value is set to -1 then we should check the indentation limit (while default should be set to 5) ?
