Description

When a new admin start setting up his Tiki he will likely put his own logo.

However there 0 control on the page or in the code code to limit the logo size but the 1170px width for the first container.

So if the admin pick a high resolution logo, it can use the 1170px width.

Result is not what is expected.

Having the "non power user" user in a situation he have to resize the logo and reupload it is "passé".

We should have some logical limit. (optional, changeable, whatever)
