- ● User registration tracker plugin option shouldn't modify the registration fields set by the admin

Description
Using a Tiki at tiki-admin.php?page=login you can set the user to receive an email to validate its account or as welcome.
This work fine.

You can also use a tracker plugin in a wiki page to fill a tracker item and set that this include a registration.
However the user then doesn't receive any email or validation email.

There is a parameter "Validate users" (y/n) that override only part of the process:
"Here one can overrule the default validate users by e-mail preference"

Setting to Y, users are validated automatically.
They don't receive the registration validation email or anything else (all process is overruled) .

Setting to N, users are not validated.
But, they also don't receive the registration validation email or anything else (all process is overruled) .

Solution
Registration process should be the same no matter from where.
