Description

It is impossible to delete a wiki page. It doesn't matter whether you go to list wiki pages and select delete from the context menu of that page, or go to orphan pages and select delete from the context menu, or whether you check the checkbox in those to lists and then choose "delete selected".

A dialog pops up that asks whether you really want to delete that page. In this dialog, the page for deletion is correctly stated, so a page HAS been correctly selected.

But after confirmation you always get the error message "no page selected" and "one or more pages should be selected"...

Also, calling the page that shall be deleted and using the "more" menu below, which contains the option "remove", also simply yields the "no page selected" error...

I'm seeing this as well. Bumped the priority as this is a pretty basic feature.
