Description

The Sandbox feature is supposed to let a wiki page named "Sandbox" be available for testing syntax, trying out plugins, and so on by looking at the page preview, without saving the content, so every time the page opens, it has no content. Also there are no page versions, no page history, etc.

But in a Tiki 23 site and in the current Tiki master, after turning on the Sandbox page feature, I can save changes and see the page history and so on just like any other wiki page.

I'd like to request that when this is being fixed, could a CSS class or id like "sandbox" be added to the html or body tag, please? There are use cases where it would be good to be able to style the sandbox differently from other wiki pages.
