Description

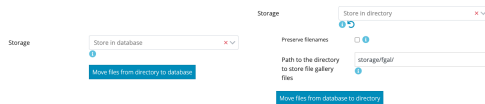

So tested with current master (25.x) and its the same behaviour.

Moving from db to dir works, but lable dont toggle. And pressing it again dont make files disappear in dir so I assume it might be that the function to move gallery items from directory back to database isn't working right now.

So its consistently wrong from at least from 21.x

Solution

Works for me but you have to click "apply" for the button to change. This is what i see on both master/trunk and 24.x

none currently as moving back to database is at least not removing the files from the directory and no feedback of the system is given what happened and if the process of moving was successful.

on fresh install file gallery images added end up in database. Label says correctly move to directory, And this works, but label dont change after migrating images to directory. The label should switch/toggle to move to database if files are in directory.

More screenshots here: <https://avan.tech/item76398-Bug-Fix-File-Gallery>.

Also if moving files back to database file in dir should be deleted and some sort of success or error message is needed as feedback for the users .

I used a freshly build docker image for testing. So its pulled from gitlab each time I reinstall a version.
