- ● Kanban plugin; It should be possible to hide edit and anchor icon of a card, a user shouldn't see action he can't do

Description

When you click on the Edit button of a KanBan card it load a new page to edit the trackeritem.

Everywhere else (by default) the edit trackeritem screen opens in a modal.
It should be the same for the card of a Kanban plugin.

I created an instance : <http://bsfez-11581-8358.show2.tiki.org/tiki-index.php?page=Basic-board>

That was very deliberate (and was rather extensively discussed at the UX design stage):

- 1- It wasn't technically realistic (we'd have to display the modal in an iframe, which we didn't manage to do, and we tried)
- 2- That modal is unusable UX wise for all but the most trivial tracker (save button pops offscreen, with no scrollbar) for most of the cases the board means to solve (quick editing)
- 3- Utils we have push updates, it's less surprising if the editor is in a different tab that the board does not refresh upon save.
- 4- As the system evolves, users will want a DIFFERENT modal with a more board oriented interface. We don't want to create an expectation that the modal will be the same interface.

I guess then this is by design...

If we can "eliminate" the edit button it shouldn't be very critical. ;-)
