Description

After saving the edit to a wiki page you get the usual Success Alert at the top of the page. I think in previous versions this used to disappear after 3~5 seconds. Instead you have to close it manually. I think this item should be timed to disappear after a few seconds.

Hi @Kevin Doyle!

Thank you for taking the time to submit this report. We appreciate your contribution to the Tiki community.

We've reviewed your report and can confirm that this is a normal behavior in Tiki (The success alert works like that in all versions).

However, if you want the alert to disappear automatically after a certain time, we suggest you submit a feature request for that.

Once again, thank you for your dedication to the Tiki community. We're eager to work together to make Tiki more user-friendly.

Best regards,
Tiki Community Support Team
