Description
    The installation documentation (I referred to all pages linked from the main page plus several postgresql-specific ones) do not give any indication that TikiWiki is only usable if installed in document root (aka TikiWiki is greedy/must run the whole domain). This should be specified as a installation requirement.

    A better solution (IMHO) would be to fix the coding (e.g. replace absolute paths by relative ones) so that TikiWiki would place nice if installed in a subdirectory.

Solution
    Sorry, but tikiwiki works very fine in subdirectories.
