Description

We can already filter by section:

<http://dev.tikiwiki.org/tiki-searchindex.php?highlight=test&where=trackers>

Now, we could use `â€©=fr`

Also, users can now indicate to Tiki the languages they speak. If a person speaks three languages, s/he should see all three.

Can someone implement this? I want to propose tiki in my organisation for a LARGE scale rollout and I know they will see it as stupid that an English speaking user will see a tonne of translates pages in French, Spanish etc in search results.

Basically you should only ever see content presented to you, in the languages you are comfortable in using (or the site default). But you always have an option within that content to view a translation.
