Description

Nowadays, Tracker item rating cannot be seen nor selected if using either PluginTracker or PluginTrackerList. However, it can be seen (for anons) and voted for registered again, after some recent fixes by Sylvie! (thanks Sylvie 😊)

I tested that here in dev.tw.o (for instance):

<http://dev.tikiwiki.org/Calendar>

(not showing ratings even if they exist; check tracker5)

2007-08-13 ML: But this will conflict with wiki page cache. (because value of my last vote is shown, and likely different than yours).

2007-08-13 Xavi: If cache is the problem for this feature request, why not forcing/advising the user to avoid using cache (at least in this page) if he/she wants this tracker field correctly show on the page? (in case this feature is considered interesting enough). I leave to consideration by coders... It was just a suggestion which I would find useful.

2007-12-09 ML: Fixed in BRANCH-1-9 by Kernel22. You need to add tracker field ID to trackerlist plugin.

Wiki page cache with trackerlist ratings needs to be tested to see what the real issues (if any)

Solution

FOR 1.9.8.3+: TRACKERLIST plugin has been fixed. There were checks for specific admin or view permissions on tracker and vote related things in the template, however if you had tiki_p_admin set, it bypassed sending any information at all on permissions to the template, so the Ratings (and other things) would not get displayed. I now pass through the tiki_p_admin permission and do a check for it along with every other check so that if you have admin privs, this works fine.

looking now at the tracker plugin...not sure I can fix that...don't understand the cache stuff much.

Seems fixed in Tiki12.
